NATIONAL POLITICS

GLENDALE REPRESENTED AT LUNCHEON FOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE-WOMAN

Monday Mrs. Ralph Meeker of this city was a guest at the luncheon given at Hotel Clark by Mrs. Florence Collins Porter for Mrs. Severance, Republican National Committeewoman, who is here with Republican National Chairman Hays. The luncheon was followed by a conference of representative Republican women which was attended not only by Mrs. Meeker, but also by Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., and Dr. Jessie Russell of this city.

The conference did not concern itself with candidates but instead with planks which it wished to have inserted in the Republican national platform. The chief of these called for a national compulsory education law which would give to every child in the United States between the ages of six and sixteen the same educational opportunities whether the child dwells in a remote mountain district or in the heart of a great city.

The sentiment of the conference seemed to be that since men and women are now on an equal plane as voters, sex lines should be abolished. It was announced that in the coming national Republican campaign women will be expected to work shoulder to shoulder with men without separate organizations.

The tendency to do away with sex discrimination also made itself manifest in a proposed plank to be submitted at the national convention calling for equal pay for women who do equal work with men.

WOOLEY-HAASE

Sam Wooley, who for a period of six months or more was a member of the family of F. W. Anderson of 126 North Louise Street, but who recently has been living in Los Angeles, changed his bachelor estate to that of a benedict last Sunday, when he was united in marriage to Miss Virginia L. Haase of Los Angeles. The ceremony took place at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. C. R. Norton of this city, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. H. L .Anderson, Helen, Winifred and Doty Anderson. After the knot had been securely tied the wedding party was entertained with refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Wooley will be temporarily located with Los Angeles friends for a while but are looking for a permanent home.

PUSS IN THE CORNER

A few of the real estate dealers are playing a regular puss in the corner game. Messrs. Doner & Hemenway the first of February are to take possession of the office vacated by Whiting & Hawkins, R. M. Jackson will take the office vacated by Doner & Hemenway, Calvin Whiting will take the office on East Broadway which Mr. Jackson is giving up, and at the same time C. E. Peck, the jeweler, will move to the new brick store which is being built for him across from his present location with Mr. Jackson on Broadway.

HOWLAND-GREEN

FAY HOWLAND OF LONG BEACH AND MISS GREEN OF MONTROSE WEDDED LAST NIGHT

Fay K. Howland of Long Beach and Miss Clara Isabel Green of Montrose were united in marriage last evening at the bride's home. Rev. C. A. Cole officiated, using the ring ceremony. Between 35 and 40 guests were present, many of them relatives. The bride was married in her traveling dress and she and her husband went to his home last night. He is an employe of the Pacific Electric in Long Beach. His bride is the daughter of C. S. Green and wife. Mr. Green has been for twelve years manager of the Sparr fruit ranch, living on the place. His employer was among the guests.

WEBSTER SHOWS FAITH BY ACTS

A. F. Webster, who came out to Glendale from Vermont, Ill., more than a year ago, is constantly writing back to the home paper and to old friends lavish praises of Glendale, its beauties, its wonderful business activities and its healthful climate. The home paper recently published a good-natured jibe at Mr. Webster from a local correspondent of the Walt Mason order, who charged that Bert Webster was trying to get all of Vermont (Ill.) to move out to California. He said Bert had already lured one of the undertakers out there, had one of the leading physicians almost persuaded and he supposed the sexton of the local cemetery would be tackled next. Mr. Webster has shown his faith in Glendale by buying a handsome home and a prosperous business here.

O. E. S. FUNCTION

VAN NUYS AND BURBANK CHAPTERS UNITE TO HONOR GRAND OFFICERS

Monday evening the Burbank Chapter of the O. E. S. was invited to unite with the Van Nuys Chapter in entertaining the grand officers of the order who are visiting the Southern district and who will be entertained in Glendale the last of the week.

Mrs. Dan Campbell, Past Grand Chaplain, who helped to organize the baby chapter in Burbank and who is affectionately known as the "mother" of the chapter, was a guest of honor at the function referred to, which took place in Van Nuys and at which the Grand Matron was presented by that chapter with a beautiful set of silver carvers, the Burbank Chapter making her the recipient of a very beautiful opalescent dish. Following the reception delicious refreshments were served, about one hundred guests participating.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

There was a daring hold-up yesterday forenoon on San Fernando Road at the end of Riverdale Drive. A big truck belonging to the Federal Grocery Company was making its rounds delivering supplies to the different stores run by the company, one of which is in Burbank, and at the place mentioned the driver was held up by four Greeks in a touring car with trailer attached. They quickly transferred to their trailer all the flour and butter carried, over $80 worth, threatened the driver and his companion with death if they started the truck for half an hour, then sped away. They had not been apprehended at last report from police headquarters.

EASTERNERS ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver O. Clark of North Louise entertained at dinner Saturday evening a group of friends and relatives who are spending the winter in Los Angeles, covers being laid for Sims McCann, who is an uncle by marriage of Mrs. Clark, his brother, Charles McCann, and Mrs. Snoffer, of Ohio, Miss Keyes and Mr. and Mrs. George Levis of Los Angeles. On Sunday the Clarks again entertained the party with a long auto ride over the ridge and across into the desert.

LOCKWOODS IN NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lockwood have taken formal possession of their six-room bungalow, just completed at 219 West Lomita Avenue. They will improve the grounds with lawn and trees as they get time.

HOUSTON TO BE SECRETARY OF TREASURY

WILL BE SUCCEEDED AS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE BY EDWIN T. MEREDITH OF IOWA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa, editor of "Successful Farming," will succeed Secretary of Agriculture Houston when he becomes Secretary of the Treasury to succeed Carter Glass of Virginia, it was learned today. The president's intention to transfer Houston to the treasury became known last night.

Meredith is president of the Association of Advertising Clubs of America and was an unsuccessful candidate for the governorship of Iowa on a good roads platform in 1916. He was a member of the Public Group at the Round Table Industrial Conference.

INDORSES PRESIDENT'S RECOMMENDATION

SENATOR KENDRICK SAYS APPROPRIATIONS FOR STARVING EUROPE WILL STABILIZE CONDITIONS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SEATTLE, Jan. 27.—Senator Kendrick, addressing the American National Livestock Association today, declared that an appropriation of $150,000,000 to feed Europe will help stabilize the Eurpean economic situation and will also open European markets to American foodstuffs.

MONEY FOR STARVING EUROPE

PRESIDENT RECOMMENDS THE APPROPRIATION BY CONGRESS OF $150,000,000

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—It was learned today that the President will recommend that Congress appropriate $150,000,000 to feed the starving people of Poland and other countries of Europe. General Bliss and Herbert Hoover already have indorsed the appropriation.

The president is not expected to send Congress a note or a message on the subject but will make suggestions to individual members of Congress.

FIGHT ON CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITION

ESTIMATED TWO YEARS WILL BE REQUIRED TO DETERMINE ITS STATUS BY THE COURTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Government attorneys today estimated it would be two years before it is definitely known whether constitutional prohibition stands on a firm legal foundation. The measure is now under the heaviest legal fire any law or part of the constitution has ever been subjected to. Seven lines of attack have been launched in the courts against the measure. They are:

Claims that prohibition is not a subject for constitutional amendment.

Claims that the enforcement act is unconstitutional.

Claims that the law cannot be enforced in any state refusing to ratify the prohibition amendment.

Claims that ratification can be withdrawn by a referendum vote in any state.

Claims that the state has the right to increase the amount of alcohol permitted in beverages.

Claims that Congress only has the right to forbid the use of high proof liquors.

Claims that the liquor interests can recover from the government for losses caused them by prohibition.

All these points are covered in numerous actions now in the Federal Court.

DEFENDS HERBERT HOOVER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 27.—President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University issued a statement today defending Herbert Hoover from attacks made upon him. He declared he had been a life-long friend of Hoover, and pronounced the statements attacking him a "campaign of lies."

LIQUOR INVENTORIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Collector of Internal Revenue Roper today extended until February 10 the time for filing inventories by persons possessing private stocks of liquors. The time limit originally set was up today.

ANOTHER GERMAN APPEAL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Germany today sent a note to the peace conference asking it to relieve her from the execution of the section of the peace treaty requiring the delivery of war criminals for trial by the allies.

EVENING NEWS PLANT

KENT & SON BEGIN WORK ON NEW HOME FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS

On December 20 last the Glendale Evening News entered into an agreement with Joe Pagliuso, owner of a lot at 139 South Brand Boulevard for the erection of a brick building 50 feet by 110, the same to be built exclusively for the use of the Evening News, and to be completed next April.

C. W. Kent & Son are the architects and builders. This firm began active operations in the construction of the building yesterday morning. The total cost of the building when completed is to be $14,000. The entire front part of the building will be used for office purposes, the remainder of the floor space to be given to the publishing and job printing departments. Good ventilation and excellent lighting facilities are features that are paramount in the construction of the building.

At the time the new printing and publishing plant is ready for occupancy there will be installed a modern Duplex printing press, a third Mergenthaler linotype machine, a power paper cutter and other machinery and furniture in keeping with the new quarters. The proposed installation of this new machinery is no indication, however, that the present equipment of the Evening News is not in advance of that of many of the cities of equal population to Glendale.

It has been and will continue to be the policy of the Evening News to keep a year or two in advance of the newspaper needs of the growing city. The Daily was merged from a weekly in September, 1913, and although the business may not seem yet to warrant the existence of a daily newspaper, yet the publisher believes it is one of the essential aids in successfully building up a live city, and it is his plan to assist in rendering this aid so far as patronage will permit.

At this time it is in place to thank one and all of the citizens of Glendale, including the professional and business men for the encouragement and support they have given the local daily paper in the past six years. The Evening News always stands for Glendale first, and believes thoroughly in patronizing home merchants, even if better bargains sometimes can be gotten elsewhere, as it is upon the home merchant we depend for our revenue for keeping up streets, schools and all local organizations.

The Southern California Associated Dailies has set the date for the next semi-annual meeting of the association to be held in Glendale at the time of the completion and opening for business of the Glendale Evening News publishing and printing plant. The territory of this association comprises the counties of Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial. Fellow publishers from cities included in this territory have already signified their intention of being present at the meeting to be held in Glendale.

REVIVAL SERVICES

AUSPICIOUS OPENING OF EVANGELISTIC WORK AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

An excellent service Monday night marked the opening of the series of revival meetings which are taking place at the First Methodist Church in this city and the attendance was such as to greatly encourage Pastor Crist, who was especially pleased at the unanimous backing evidenced by the attendance of church officials. Music formed an important part of the service, the singing evangelist, Frank Cooper, leading the congregation in the singing of the gospel hymns for which new books have been provided, and for which a magnificent accompaniment was furnished by the pipe organ, over which Mrs. Randall presided, and two pianos—one played by Mrs. H. V. Brown, the other by Miss Waunita Emery, the three instruments playing in unison. There were vocal solos by Miss Isgrig and by Mr. Cooper and the address of the evening was made by Rev. Fred H. Ross, conference evangelist who, like Mr. Cooper, is an old friend of the pastor. His talk had to do with the obligations of Christians to bring others to Christ and of the equipment necessary for such work.

WEATHER FORECAST: Fair tonight and Wednesday. No important change in temperature.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

NATAL DAY OF J. H. BRALY CELEBRATED WITH TURKEY FEAST

Several friends of John Hyde Braly had the pleasure of celebrating his birthday last Saturday evening. It was a surprise dinner arranged by Mrs. Braly, who sent to the Imperial Valley for a plump, tender turkey to furnish the foundation of the feast, and then invited Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy W. Bosserman, Mr. and Mrs. William Button, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, to join herself, the host, and her sister and house guest, Mrs. Wells, in the observance of the day. White carnations, calendulas and ferns were employed in the floral decorations, and the chef of the household quite outdid himself in the birthday cake, which was a triumph of confectionery. It was a very jolly party and Mr. Braly was made to feel like a Croesus by being made the recipient of enormous checks drawn upon defunct banks. He also received some much appreciated tangible remembrances, a beautiful book from Mr. Button and a box of fine cigars from Mr. Evans. Mrs. Bosserman entertained during the evening with piano numbers and the company also enjoyed phonograph records of speeches by Will Hays and by Senator Lodge, especially the latter, who is so much in the limelight at the present time. Mr. Braly did not announce the number of milestones set up by Father Time along his pathway, but gave evidence of feeling just as young as ever.

THEY LIKE GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. William H. La Fountain of 203 West Acacia Avenue are entertaining Mr. and Mrs William Herzog of Troy, New York. Mr. Herzog is at the head of a large grocery business there. They are planning to spend several months here and already have developed so much enthusiasm for Southern California that they are talking of disposing of their interests in the East and transferring their residence to this state, and probably to Glendale, with which they have fallen in love. They have done considerable sightseeing, and the more they see the better they like conditions.

HOUSE UNLOCKED, CLOTHES STOLEN

Two employes of the Thom ranch ost a good suit of clothes each yesterday. The suits were in the men's rooms in the bunk house, which was still left unlocked, in spite of the fact that there were two thefts of money from the same house last week, one of $25 and the other of $5. Does not such carelessness encourage theft?

XVI CLUB MEETS

Mrs. Llewellyn Andrews of 1413 East Wilson Avenue entertained the XVI Club Saturday afternoon. The house was decorated with violets and carnations. The afternoon was taken up with games, conversation and refreshments. It was announced that the next entertainers will be Miss Alice McCoy and Mrs. Warren Roberts, at the home of the latter, on February 14. It will of course have a distinctively Valentine flavor.

WINTER SPORTS

A recent letter received by Mrs. Mary E. Shropshire, of 245 South Everett from her daughter, Grace, who is visiting an aunt in Lawrence, Kansas, tells of winter sports she is enjoying. There has been little snow and cold weather until very recently, when she had the novel pleasure of witnessing skating on ice for the first time in her life. Heavy snows have fallen in the past few days, also, and the sleighing is fine.

INCREASED TRAVEL

GLENDALE-MONTROSE LINE ADD EXTRA CAR MORNINGS, MAKING HALF-HOUR SERVICE

Representatives of the Glendale-Montrose electric line state that beginning the first of February they will improve their service by the addition of an extra car in the morning. This will make the service every half hour instead of every hour as now. At the present time the evening service is half-hourly. The increase of travel on this line has made necessary this improvement. The Newport Company is now running through excursions from Los Angeles over this line four times a week.

MADE IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

A new label is appearing on imported manufactured goods, and one which will meet the warm approval of Americans. It is the mark, "Made in Czecho-Slovakia."

Manufactures from that part of Europe have been sold in this country before. The people there have always been industrious and have sent to the United States quantities of art glass, hand-painted china, fancy beads, hand-made lace, embroidery, toys, musical instruments, gloves and other merchandise. But most of it was bought up by their political masters and was sold to us under the trademarks of Germany and Austria.

The new label is simply a sign of Czecho-Slovak independence. They are proud of their freedom and of their nationality. They are industrious as ever. And they are eager to get on their feet nationally and to stay there. Americans can sympathize with them in all those ambitions and will buy their goods gladly.

Y. W. C. A. CLUB SERVES 3,000 IN THREE WEEKS

During the first three weeks of its existence the American Woman's Club, recently opened by the American Y. W. C. A. in Paris, in what was formerly the Y. W. C. A. Hostess House, Hotel Petrograd, has entertained 170 transient guests, most of whom stayed over the allotted two weeks. Three thousand meals were served, averaging 209 meals daily during the first twenty-one days, the largest number of meals serving during that time being 281.

The club is rapidly becoming the center of American life in Paris. Sunday afternoon tea has been established, with prominent women acting as hostesses, and all Americans in Paris stop in at some time on Sunday afternoon or during the musicale at night. An effort is being made to get as many American musicians of note on the Sunday night programs as possible.

WILLING TO SALUTE

An Irish priest was proudly boasting to his visitor, an English clergyman, of the great respect of his parishioners for their pastor. Strolling along a country road at the time, they met a little boy who was endeavoring to keep in check a large goat. The clergyman passed, but the boy did not raise his hat. "Is that one of your parishioners?" demanded the English clergyman.

"I am sorry to say he is," replied the other. And calling to the boy, he demanded: "Is that the way you are taught to respect your clergy? What did you not salute?"

The youngster, with both hands on the rope replied: "If your riverence houlds this wan I'll salute ye."

A USELESS QUESTION

The following episode took place in a country village in the north of England. One morning, as a schoolmaster was proceeding to his school, he saw a penny lying on the ground. Picking it up, he placed the penny in his pocket, and after the children had assembled in the school the schoolmaster said,

"Has any child lost any money?"

After a few moments a small boy in the front of the class put up his hand.

"Well, Robert, what do you want?" asked the master.

"Please, sir, I have lost a penny," replied the boy.

"And where did you lose your penny, Robert?" inquired the master.

"Please, sir, where you found it."

Robert got the penny, amid the laughter of the master and the whole class.

KEEP LANDSCAPE

Joseph Pennell, the Philadelphia artist, has joined the forces making the uphill struggle for unadulterated American landscapes. We have now come to a pass in America where the choice of views are hardly obtainable because of the billboards set up to intercept eyes seeking natural beauty. Great Britain has a law forbidding the erection of signboards where they interfere with the view. France is trying to tax the artistic nuisance to death. In America, as yet, there is nothing but such protests as Mr. Pennell's to show any resentment against the commercializing of the country's natural beauties.—Lincoln (Neb.) Journal.

WHAT HE REQUIRED

After reading a poem about a little boy who was so happy because there were lovely flowers, beautiful birds, blue sky and running brooks, eight-year-old William remarked:

"Those things would never make me happy, Miss Jones."

"Why, William," replied his teacher, "what would it take to make you happy?"

"Saturday," was the prompt reply.

Only 686 miles of new railroad were built in this country last year—the lowest figure since the beginning of the railroad business. If that rate is going to continue, the canal-builders had better get busy.

AUSTRALIA'S MISSION

IT IS TO BE AMERICA'S FUTURE STOREHOUSE, IN MR. RATCLIFF'S OPIOION

Joshua Ratcliff, who recently bought the beautiful property at 207 West Lexington Drive, is a man of far-reaching vision. Himself a merchant for many years, he instinctively senses the material needs of community and nation and is quick to see a solution for the problem of supplying our country's future wants.

Mr. Ratcliff was born in Vaughn, Victoria province, Australia, a small town 50 miles from Ballarat, the famous mining camp and city of that section. He went to Melbourne in 1885 and engaged in general merchandising there for many years, moving to England in 1914. He had retired from business before this and had become quite a traveler, visiting India, China, Egypt and many other lands.

In all his travels he has seen no place which he considers so delightful as a residence as Glendale. Tasmania, an island near Australia, has as fine a climate, he says, but not the beautiful surroundings and eternal verdure. Of the many peoples he has seen none approach so near physical perfection as the natives of the Samoan Islands. They are like the ancient Greeks, he says, of perfect physical proportions, olive complexions and graceful carriage. Melbourne proper, says Mr. Ratcliff, is a compact city of 100,000 people but with its outlying suburbs separated from it by beautiful parks and the Yarra Yarra river comprises a population of nearly 700,000. Thus while it equals Los Angeles in population its area is far less. Its traffic is so well regulated that accidents are very rare. He says that if one-half the appalling list of deaths by accidents as occur weekly in Los Angeles were to happen in Melbourne the people would arise as one man and sweep the city officials from power.

But it is of Australia's potentiality as a food storehouse that Mr. Ratcliff likes to talk. New South Wales province, for instance, has 100,000,000 sheep and other parts of the great island many more millions. Cattle and hogs are raised in abundance, also, and Australia's wheat fields are almost illimitable. Sydney, the great seaport, a city larger than Melbourne, but not nearly so beautiful, has the most commodious and beautiful harbor in the world in Mr. Ratcliff's opinion. It is just four weeks from Los Angeles harbor by swift steamships. Mr. Ratcliff confidently looks forward to seeing, ere many years pass, a regular line of steamships plying between the two ports, carrying millions of tons of butter, bacon, mutton, beef and grain to feed America's teeming millions that are crowding more and more into the cities. Australia has land enough to feed the world with its products and America is its nearest market.

Mr. Ratcliff while he loves his native land and reveres Mother England, he is already taking a lively interest in his adopted country. He has evidently been a close student of American public life and public men, for he has formed opinions on them that he can converse about most intelligently.

A STANDARD OF VALUE

All this rising of prices and effort of wages and salaries to keep up with them, and the unsettlement of values generally, only emphasizes more and more clearly the desirability of some standard of value that would not fluctuate as gold does. The question of an "absolute standard of value," formerly merely of theoretical interest, takes on a very practical aspect.

It is agreed that the principal cause of high prices is the expanded volume of money and credit. These, of course, are based on gold. While other commodities have decreased in volume, gold has increased, and by issuance of bonds, banknotes, subsidiary coins and credits of various sorts based on gold, the gold supply has been practically multiplied still further.

If gold had not become so "cheap," if the purchasing value of the gold dollar could have been kept at a standstill, obviously there would have been no general rise in price levels. Thus the same wages, the same salaries, the same income from the investment, would still have meant about the same standards of living as before.

Gold, of course, cannot be maintained at a standstill. Its value is bound to vary, like the value of every other form of exchangeable wealth, according to its comparative plenty or scarcity. The purchasing value of the gold dollar fluctuates, of course, with the market value of the gold in that dollar. We are in the absurd situation of using, as a standard to measure all material values, something which itself is continually changing. It is as if we should try to measure distances with a yardstick that was never twice the same length, or to measure grain with a bushel measure that was always stretching or shrinking.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale and other progressive economists are urging, more strongly than ever, the desirability of adopting some standard of value, some monetary unit, that will not change. It is a difficult problem, for which nobody has yet given a very convincing solution. Perhaps the most persuasive suggestion is that the unit of value be made a coin or counter having no particular intrinsic value, but standing for a definite quantity of the common necessaries of life. It might be based on a dozen or a hundred commodities. At any time, then, that unit would be guaranteed to give its possessor about the same quantity of life's material satisfaction as at any other time. The working out of this plan in practice would be a very complex undertaking. No one seems to have a full-fledged plan ready for acceptance and operation. But surely, sooner or later, something of the kind will be done.—Long Beach Telegram.

A GOOD STATEMENT OF NEWSPAPER PRINCIPLES

At the head of the editorial columns of the New York World is kept standing the following statement of its principles, as formulated by Joseph Pulitzer, the founder and first editor of the paper. We are not in a position to know how fully the World may live up to these principles; but, if it puts them into practice in its columns, editorial, news and advertising, the paper ought to be a model one in every respect.

"An institution that should always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty."

It may be objected that it is necessary to belong to a party in order to exert an influence for the right. While that is true, there is a difference between belonging to a party, body and soul, and using one's own party to promote the principles of righteousness and peace.

WITH ALL OUR LIMBS WE STILL ARE CRIPPLES

How many of us realize we are cripples? We have the usual quota of legs and arms, fingers and toes, but we're cripples just the same. Samuel Hopkins Adams made the discovery while studying reconstruction of maimed soldiers at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington. Describing the incident in the Red Cross Magazine, he writes:

"'I suppose you regard yourself as a whole man,' demanded one of the vocational therapy experts.

"Looking myself hastily over to make sure that I had not lost anything in the surgical ward, I replied that I could count the usual number of arms, legs, and other appurtenances.

"'All right,' said the expert, 'but you're sort of a cripple at that. You're atrophied.'

"'If I am, I've never discovered it,' I assured him.

"'Of course not. People never do until they're shown. You haven't got anything like the full use of more than four fingers and two thumbs out of a total of ten. The normal man—the man who believes himself normal, I mean—never has. Can you light a safety-match with one hand?'

"He handed me the box and the match. After the second abortive attempt the match fell on the floor and the box fell on the match.

"'That's elementary, that stunt,' remarked the instructor. 'Our one-arms can do that before they get out of bed. You see, your two smaller fingers are really cripples. Now we teach our fellows to do the work with those fingers that you have to use another hand for. There's the whole physical principle of our training in its simplest form—substitution.'"

SHE KNEW THE GREAT STORY

As we crawled up a railroad track in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry (this was in October)—a railroad track which seemed the only new and complete object in sight—the Y. M. C. A. girl, who had been sitting in the corner of the compartment resisting all advances at conversations, volunteered a remark.

"Our division took it," she said.

It turned out that she had gone in with her canteen just behind the division, during that fight wherein America made good. She lacked the narrative talent, that girl, but she came out at intervals with flashes like this:

"When our boys came up the stragglers said to them: 'You can't stay in there!' And our boys said: 'We'll not only stay there, but we're going forward.' When the stragglers saw that, they formed, too, and went back with them."

Or this, as we drew into sight of a road bordered by blackened ruins:

"There's where our divisions came into sight, singing, 'The Yanks Are Coming.'"—Will Irwin in the Saturday Evening Post.

PRINTER'S MISTAKES

It seems many people turn mistakes into personal profit. About the only one who fails to grind his errors in the grist of gold is the printer.

When a lawyer makes a mistake it's just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again.

When a carpenter makes a mistake it is just what he expected, because the chances are ten to one that he has never learned his business.

When an electrician makes a mistake he blames it on "induction," because nobody knows what it is.

AN IRREGULAR DRINKER

"Show me an anti-suffragette, and I'll show you a woman of the Mrs. Mallory type," said Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont at a luncheon in New York, according to the Washington Star.

"A suffragist slum-worker visited Mrs. Mallory in her wretched East Side home. While Mrs. Mallory bent over her washtubs—she was a washerwoman by trade—and while three small Mallorys sprawled at her feet, she talked with contempt of the English militants. What women wanted to vote for Mrs. Mallory couldn't see. 'It unsexes 'em,' she said.

"The talk turned then to Mrs. Mallory's home troubles, and the visitor asked,

"'Does your husband drink regularly?'

"'No'm,' the anti meekly replied. 'My wages ain't steady.'"

OWNED FINE LIBRARY

Andrew D. White, the eminent American diplomat, who died recently, was the owner of one of the finest libraries in America. Mr. White began early in life to accumulate books, chiefly on the subjects of the world's history. At last he had 40,000 volumes, a respectable total, as Mr. Birrell would admit, who once said that a man should never talk of his library until he had 10,000 books. Mr. White left his library to Cornell University.

GOT AWAY WITH IT

"You mustn't smoke a cigar on the front platform," said the motorman.

"This isn't a cigar," responded the smoker.

"Huh?"

"This is a cigarette, which—"

The city council of Upland, according to the News, expects to postpone the paving of upper Euclid avenue till prices come down, which according to present indications will be about a week after hell freezes over.

The Long Beach Telegram says the police there picked up a hobo the other day who claimed the long-distance record for loafing. He had never done a day's work in his life. He is now engaged in breaking that record and a pile of rocks in the city bastile.

YALE GETS WEBSTER'S HOUSE

In purchasing and taking possession of the famous Noah Webster house, Yale university has come into possession of one of the oldest and perhaps the most historical building in New Haven.

When the venerable lexicographer wrote the dictionary a century ago, he never dreamed that the home in which he performed his literary labors would prove the quarters of United States troops in the greatest of world wars. Yet that was the destiny of the plain wooden building. The university turned it over to the Student Army training corps and it was occupied by soldiers till the final demobilization.

It was the home of Webster while he resided in the city, although part of his dictionary was written in Amherst, Mass. He was one of Yale's most famous professors, his work ranking in world value with that of his fellow professors, Samuel F. B. Morse and Eli Whitney.

The home stands at the corner of Grove and Temple streets and was formerly the property of Courtland T. Trowbridge, a relative of the lexicographer. The university has acquired it because of its scheme to fill the square bounded by Wall, Temple, Grove and College streets with dormitories for the Sheffield scientific school. The entire group, it is expected will be given by Frederick W. Vanderbilt of New York City, a graduate of the class of '76. He already has given two large dormitories.

AERIAL ROUTES

Southern California towns are scrambling and striving to be included in aerial routes to be established. We fail to see just the advantage it would be to be on an aerial route. If aviators want to stop at a town, they'll stop, and they won't follow any mapped-out route, because there won't be any track to follow, not even as much as there is in the ocean. And we fail to see what particular business it would bring a town to be on an air highway, or a high airway, or whatever they're going to call it, unless a fellow's airplane goes wrong over a town, in which case it might bring a little business to the local undertaker. Some sort of system for fining speeders over a town might be worked out to bring in local revenue, but even then, in order to make it legal, proper notices would have to be posted as a warning, and where would they be posted? They might be hung on captive balloons. But suppose a captive balloon bearing the road sign "Safe Landing" were to swing in the wind until it was directly over a yard where a couple of old maids lived who kept a bull dog. Or if a sign bearing "Slow—Cemetery" were to swing around until it hung over the store of some merchant who didn't advertise. Who would be responsible in the damage suits, or the damaged suits, or whatever would result? It's certainly going to be some problem to work out all the details of this aeroplanitis that is almost upon us.

The clothing merchants of Long Beach gave many gifts to the members of the high school team there which won the championship and defeated the Phoenix team so ignominiously. Some of the boys received silk shirts, others smoking jackets and others neck ties. The Phoenix team hoped for a least a tie, but got nothing but a goose egg.

MARIE MORRISEY SURE IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

If you have ever had the embarrassment of speaking to a total stranger under the impression you knew him, only to find out it was the man whose picture adorned every chewing-gum label you come across, you will understand how this doughboy felt.

One day last year when Marie Morrisey, who is giving a concert in Glendale this evening, was making a concert tour through Canada, she stopped at Sidney to sing for the 600 U. S. troops that were quarantined there. As she passed from ward to ward, singing as she went, she stopped now and again to chat with the soldiers.

One interesting chap attracted her attention and she said to him:

"Hello, there, where do you come from?"

"Minnesota," he answered indifferently.

Then politeness got the better of him and he turned to look at Miss Morrisey.

"Gee whiz!" he exclaimed excitedly, "why I know you!"

Then they puzzled and puzzled over it. Finally the doughboy's face brightened.

"I know," he exclaimed, "my father is an Edison dealer in my home town back in Minnesota, and it's your pictures I've seen so much!"

So Miss Morrisey is sure that she has a great many friends whom she has never seen herself. Tonight's concert ought to convince her that in Glendale she is among many more friends.

I AM THE PRINTING PRESS

"I am the printing press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

"I sing the songs of the world, the oratorios of history, the symphonies of all time.

"I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow. I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike

"I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pulse of nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die.

"I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze, with fearlessness, into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of hope eternal.

"When I speak a myriad people listen to my voice. The Anglo-Saxson, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

"I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge and power. I epitomize the conquest of mind over matter.

"I am the record of all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lamps of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evening.

"I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust.

"I am the printing press."

OWNERSHIP

"Are you in favor of government ownership?

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "I've been trying to make up my mind. Everything depends on whether a business is run with intelligence and care, regardless of who owns it. And I've seen some men who thought they could take on all kinds of government responsibility that I wouldn't trust to run a peanut stand."

Unimproved Property Will Advance Very Soon

Buy a Lot and Build Now

if you want to be sure of having a home

Those who have seen the necessity of buying are rapidly taking up all the desirable residence property. It is almost impossible to rent and it is growing more and more difficult to buy. However, there are two very satisfactory courses remaining open to you if you haven't a home and want one:

Buy a lot, purchase building material, hire masons and carpenters and painters and plumbers and build, or

Let Bentley build for you. We have worked out a plan whereby we can relieve you of the many details and difficulties that present themselves to the builder. We do all the work and take all the responsibility. We are building on a large scale and buying lumber in quantities so we can do it cheaper than you can yourself, and on very reasonable terms, too.

Come in and talk it over and look over some of our plans If you decide to build yourself let us figure on the lumber

APPEARANCES ARE MISLEADING

Mrs. Johones was in search of a maid. She had been on the job for so long that she had ceased to be too particular in her requirements.

But even she got a shock at the sight of the latest applicant. The woman was shabby in dress, uncouth in manner, and had distinct remains of a black eye.

"Ahem!" coughed Mrs. Johones thoughtfully, wondering how much she dare ask from this belligerent-looking female. "Er —ahem—are you married?"

The applicant drew herself up haughtily.

"No, madam," she retorted; "I bumped into a door!"—Answers.

TWO ERRORS FROM IRELAND

Here are two genuine Irish bulls of recent date. "Who is running Scissors and Paste?" said one Dublin man to another. (Scissors and Paste is the happy title of a Dublin bi-weekly which consists entirely of clippings from other papers, containing no original matter whatever). The other gave the name of the well known Dublin journalist who is editing the paper. "Ah, yes," said the inquirer thoughtfully, "I thought I recognized his style."

Speaking to a gathering of political friends, a Dublin propagandist asked for help in carrying on a series of open-air meetings which he had been conducting single-handed for some weeks. "However," he added, "the people are not tired of listening to me yet, because I get a fresh audience every Sunday."—Manchester Guardian.

HIS IMPORTANCE

"Dat man 'rived at muh residence," related battered Brother Utterback, "and when I specified how-come dat he was pompousin' all over de place dat-uh-way, he said he was muh wife's fust husband. I axed him how did dat fact 'fect me. He 'nounced dat he would pow'ful soon show me. And he did, too! He slapped and hommered me fum yuh to yander. De gen'leman mought not uh-been muh wife's fust husband but he sho' was somebody mighty impawtant!"—Judge.

ITS PROFITS

"I see where they are going to have a cat show in New York for the soldiers and sailors."

"Well, the profits ought, of a show like that, amount to a considerable purr cent!"

Personals

Mrs. J. D. Walther of Chicago arrived last night to spend the remainder of the winter with her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Puffer of 452 Vine Street.

A. A. McDonald of Cerritos and Glendale Avenue has moved with his family to Burbank and his place has been taken by a new resident from Los Angeles.

A. D. Hartley and wife have sold their home at 304 North Verdugo Road and bought the place at 451 Hawthorne, formerly owned by Pierson Hanning.

The Sutherland family at 366 West Elk Street is moving to Santa Barbara this week. Mr. Sutherland has had a fine position offered him with headquarters in that city.

Mrs. Harry Marple, of 916 North Central Avenue, who has been seriously ill since the recent birth of the second child, is now out of danger. The child, a boy, is getting along famously.

Harvey Patton, a sailor attached to the Minneapolis, flagship of the Pacific Fleet, is here to spend a few days with his aunt, Mrs. Maud Schofield of 310 North Kenwood.

Ed Hall of 1232 Mariposa Street has given up his business at Sulphur Springs, Mo., and when he joined his wife and child at holiday time, came to stay and will make his permanent residence and business connections here.

Clifford Clanin, who has been running a meat market in the Park Avenue Grocery for a number of years, is having built a beautiful seven-room house at 422 North Jackson Street. It will be ready for occupancy about February 15.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Central Avenue Methodist Church is being entertained this afternoon by Mrs. Marion Smith at the parsonage. The organization has about twenty members who are sthdying Americanization.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Sieg are visiting Mrs. W. B. Crocker, 327 North Cedar. They came from Marshalltown, Ia., to spend several months. Mrs. Sieg is Mrs. Crocker's sister, and they are planning several trips around Southern California during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Bixby of Los Angeles and Miss Alice Bixby of Lincoln, Nebr., who is the guest of her brother, were Sunday callers upon Miss Carrie Porter of Kenwood and Harvard. Miss Bixby, who was a Red Cross nurse, has just returned from France.

Mrs. Allen Dunlop and little daughter, Frances, of 906 East Harvard Street, have just returned from a two months' visit in Louisiana and Texas. They found business conditions there very prosperous on account of oil interests which are booming.

G. E. Dame will move tomorrow from 421 Burchett to the home he recently purchased of Mrs. Cunningham at 627 North Central Avenue. He will improve the place with new paper and painting. He had owned the place on Burchett but a few months and made quite an advantageous sale.

Mrs. R. L. Milligan of 114 East Park Avenue is anticipating the arrival of her daughter and granddaughter from Kansas City in the near future. They have just sold a tract of 120 acres of land near Kansas City and as soon as the details of the transaction are completed they will come to California to make their permanent home.

Mrs. John Orth of 153 South Central Avenue, who has been confined to her home most of the time since New Years, with throat trouble, is just now suffering from a third attaik of quinsy.

An organ grinder, with a near-human monkey as companion, has been delighting the children of Glenlale the past two Sunday afternoons. The monkey is dressed in the uniform of an Italian soldier, and performs many tricks.

Miss Bertha Sayre of 914 South Central Avenue entertained seven young lady friends last evening with a marshmallow roast, nuts and candy. Those present were Misses Lillian and Birdie Shropshire, Alice and Lelia McCoy, Gertrude Rock, Grace Crampton and Dollie Jones.

Miss Rachel W. Bayne of Los Angeles was a week-end guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Franklin on North Central Avenue and was guest of honor at a family dinner party at which her hosts entertained the members of the Blake Franklin family.

An unusual sight was the passage along the San Fernando Road Saturday of a wagon piled high with furniture and drawn by four very small burros. In a box on the rear end of the wagon was a baby burro, not much larger than an ordinary dog. The outfit was headed for Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Ball of 363 West Elk Street have welcomed with pleasure their nephew, Raymond Millington of Lincoln, Nebr., and his friend, Willard Close, of the same city, who have arrived this week. Mr. Close expects to remain permanently in Southern California and Mr. Milington will be here until April.

A. F. Webster and family of 205 East Acacia Avenue had as guests Sunday C. S. Hillerby of Los Angeles and their daughter, Edith, who is recuperating from an operation at La Vina Sanitarium, to which she returned yesterday. She was a guest of the Websters for several weeks last summer when they lived at 208 West Elk Avenue, and made a number of friends in Glendale.

C. H. Weihe and wife recently sold their house they were living in at 904 East Acacia and also another house next door to it they were renting. They are now building a garage on acreage they own near the corner of Acacia Avenue and Adams Street. This they will occupy as a temporary residence till they can build a home.

Lieut. George Le Mesnager, one of Glendale's near-young veterans who acknowledges having seen seventy summers, was the second to grasp the hand of General Pershing yesterday when he was welcomed in Los Angeles. He is a Frenchman by birth and entered the great war before America did, persuading the military authorities to accept him as a fighting man and serving four years in spite of his age.

Mattison B. Jones has recently purchased from W. E. Evans his half interest in the two-story brick building, including lot and apartment furnishings, at California and Brand. This is known as the De Luxe Apartment and is a fine property. Almost as soon as the purchase was made Mr. Jones rented the store room known as room 11, E. California Av., in this building, to Mr. John W. Jones, of the Independent Ice Company, who will take possession on February first.

The Bradley family, who were prominent members of the community of Hamilton, Ia., at the time Rev. C. R. Norton was officiating there, and who have ever since been his warm friends, called upon him and Mrs. Norton Sunday afternoon to renew acquaintance. The party included several brothers and sisters, their wives and husbands, who have been living in Long Beach for about fifteen years and are as much attached to California as to the state of their nativity.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Porter and daughter, Frances, and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Warner of Riverside surprised Miss Carrie Porter of Harvard and Kenwood streets Monday afternoon and went from here to Los Angeles to attend the evening reception to General Pershing for which as alumni of the University of Nebraska they had tickets. Both men drilled under Pershing and both were officers in the cadet corps of that university, which was the first appointment as instructor which Pershing received after he left West Point.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT; DEFIANT

A Mexican named Pui last night picked up several new boards lying back of the Groceteria and added them to a load of lumber he had bought and was taking home. When arrested he was quite defiant, saying he had stolen the boards and was not sorry, that his wife and children were sick and he needed the lumber to build a shelter for them. He has not been in California long, coming to Glendale direct from Mexico a few months ago.

No wonder some people are afraid of the ouija board. Sir Oliver Lodge says it is an unsafe companion for the weak-minded.

PREVALENCE OF JUVENILE CRIME

Chief of Police Lampert took Shelby Tipton, the boy arrested for burglaries in the western part of the city, down to the Juvenile Hall, but so congested was the place with boys, sleeping three in a bed in many rooms, that the officers in charge directed him to take the prisoner home and put him in the care of his father, who will be required to produce him for trial next week. Mr. Lampert said he found conditions in Los Angeles very much the same as in Glendale, where 75 per cent of the crimes for which arrests are made are committed by boys. Petty stealings from homes and thefts of autos are the prevailing crimes. Mr. Lampert believes that the Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. work among the boys will do much to raise the standard of conduct among the youths and win the most of them to right living, thus doing away with juvenile crime.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Little Beryl, aged 10, was a very pretty and intelligent girl, but she had one fault—she was inclined to be vain. At every available opportunity she gazed at herself complacently in the looking glass. Her fond papa noticed the habit was growing upon her and took upon himself the duty of correcting it.

"Why do you always look in the glass?" he asked.

"You mustn't be so vain, child. Remember, we are all as nature made us."

"Did nature make you, papa?"

"Yes."

"Then," said Beryl, looking at him and then at her reflection in the mirror, "don't you think nature is turning out better work than she used to?"

ROUND TRIP

Aunt Mary Wells is one of the few "befo' de wah" darkies left in a little Kentucky town. Recently she was discussing with her employer the merry-go-round that was running up on the corner.

"Nawsuh, Mr. Malcolm," she said, "nawsuh, I don' ride on none o' dem things. Why, Mr. Malcolm, I've seen some o' these here fool niggers git on that thing and ride as much as a dollar's worth, and git off at the very same place they gits on at; an' I sez to 'em, Now you spent yo' money, nigger, whah yo' been?"—Saturday Evening Post.

AS USUAL

"My brother-in-law, Oscar Snort, has come over from Allegash and is going to open a grocery store here," said a citizen of Grudge. "He is tricky and conceited and illmannered and unprincipled, and a blowhard and a liar, and thinks he is smarter than other people, when as a matter of fact he is less so. He will make a failure of it inside of six months, and then as long as he sticks around here will blame it all on the knockers."—Kansas City Star.

Fred Kelley, famous athlete around these parts, who jumped into world fame by jumping a few hurdles faster than other folks has a job now jumping over the Florida keys in an airplane, carrying mail from Havana, Cuba to Key West, Florida. Here's hoping he won't trip over any of the hurdles.

A cash register at Claremont got stuck the other day, and on opening it for repairs, three old checks were found lodged inside, dated from 1908 to 1912. A cash register that will balk at carrying old mercantile paper longer than that has more sense than some merchants.

CUTTING UP BIG RANCHES

The Miller & Lux corporation is one of the very largest land owners in the world and its announcement that it will sell 30,000 acres of good land in Madera county is a hopeful sign. The more of our large landholders who follow the example the better—provided, of course, that there is no effort to get from inexperienced settlers all that the land will be worth when it is fully settled, the roadways taken out of the total and improved and the country made generally attractive. It is the settlers who really make a country and earn most of the increment. And they should get it.

The financial strength of France is in the minute subdivision of a great part of its land and the resulting thrift of small land owners. The financial weakness of Great Britain is the large landed estates, condemning the greater part of its population to lives with no hope of homes. The wiser British landlords are beginning to subdivide their estates so far as they are free from entail. We in California may profit from their examples. The best prevention of social unrest is the minute subdivision of tillable land.

Land fit only for stock raising is in another category. Stock raising on the plains can now be profitably conducted with large capital and over considerable areas. The time was when there was more than feed for all and the poor man could turn out a small herd on the public range and in time possibly grow rich by the increase. That time is gone. The competition of the poor men destroys the range by over feeding and their scrub bulls are the pests of those who are striving to improve their stock. It may be desirable that grazing land shall be held in large tracts, but the tillable lands, and especially those which can be irrigated, should be subdivided and settled.—Exchange.

THE BUILDING BOOM

Everything indicates that a great building revival is in progress in the United States. In the area east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river there were contracts awarded in 1919 aggregating $2,500,000,000. Figures for other sections are not available, but it is evident that the total American building program undertaken last year involved the expenditure of several billions.

An estimate for the area mentioned, based on normal standards, gives $2,800,000,000 as the probable volume of new contracts for 1920. This estimate is doubtless too low, because conditions are not normal—there are years of building arrears to be made up, and last year's record shows a steadily increasing rate of building running into the fall months when activity ordinarily subsides. It certainly does not seem unreasonable to prophesy for this year a program of new construction amounting to not less than $5,000,000,000.

This means houses, apartments, stores, hotels, factories and all the other types of building required for a great, growing, prosperous population that has been turning its effort into other channels during the war, and must now make up for lost time. It means especially houses for the multitudes that are virtually homeless—more comfortable quarters, and eventually lower rent. It means preparation for the big industrial and commercial expansion certain to come if the American people rise to their present opportunities.

It is evident that all this building, so necessary for the future prosperity of the country, cannot be accomplished unless those who want to build can obtain labor and materials, when they need them, at tolerable prices. It may be interfered with by strikes, high prices or scarcity of materials in any one of a score of industries. It may be interfered with by lack of credit. This complex building business, more perhaps than any other, depends on general business conditions and the public state of mind. It can be put over only by widespread cooperation. If it succeeds it will be the first big step in reconstruction, and itself a triumph of reconstructive effort.—Long Beach Telegram.

SPEEDING UP THE NAVY'S RECONSTRUCTION

The sale of thirteen torpedo boat destroyers in the basin of the Philadelphia navy yard is a reminder of the short life of naval craft and of the progress in naval construction which sends a continuous line of craft to the scrap heap, some of them reaching there almost before their former place in the line can be taken by the new.

Thirteen boats which are about to be dismantled and broken up for junk were all of the crop of the first year or two of the present century, the keels having been laid in 1899 or the following year. They answered all requirements of the peace service in the various fleets, nor were they lacking when the call came to active duty with the American entrance into the world war. Some of them actually won distinguished service chevrons.

But when they were built—being the first of the destroyer type—eight thousand horsepower was thought to be a maximum achievement for such small craft, and their nominal speed in the vicinity of twenty-eight or nine knots was similarly regarded. When the next crop came along in 1908 and 1909, a horse power installation of 12,000 was achieved; two years later it was boosted to 16,000, and last year, when in response to the demand of war construction was speeded up and 103 new destroyers were actually delivered within twelve months, with 136 more under way with prospects of early delivery, the "class" were ships of 28,000 horse power and speed of thirty-five knots, actually young cruisers, which were capable of overcoming in the chase and holding their own in battle with any ship of their size which was on the seas when the first "destroyer" was designed.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Here's a Good Proposition

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA EXTENSION

"There is no royal road to learning," is the discouraging remark which his tutor made to Alexander the Great. All very true. Royalty wasn't much interested in education. But there is a democratic road to learning which all may take. It is the path to the country school; the street to the city school; the interurban to the high school, and now, to these routes has been added, the mail route to University Extension

California is criss-crossed with these democratic roads to learning, and the latest road is becoming more traveled all the time, as people are learning that their education need not stop at grammar school or high school, but may continue as long as the United States conducts postoffices. Radiating from the University of California at Berkeley to every part of the state, run the democratic roads to learning, the roads that a true democracy lays out to help its people.

The University of California realizes that but a small proportion of the people who want University education can get it at the campus, so it has gone out to reach the stay-at-homes, the people who want education badly and who welcome the instruction brought to them through the mail from Room 301, California Hall, Berkeley.

One student living in the California desert has taken fourteen courses in correspondence; another, a resident of Chicago, has taken 10, and so the rolls fill up. The "customers" come back for more, come over the democratic road to learning, choosing from the 200 courses offered topics of study which range from instructions for feeding babies to information concerning the burial rites of the Egyptians.

LACK OF EXPERIENCE

The doorbell was ringing.

Virginia, aged five, was told to answer the door and say her mother was "not at home."

Following instructions, Virginia was stumped when the stranger asked, "when shall I return?"

Without leaving the door, she called: "Oh, mamma, he wants to know when you are coming back? What shall I say?"—Columbus Dispatch.

The news item about the city jail prisoner who hadn't worked a day in 12 years called forth many a longing "how does he do it?"

CLEANING LEATHER GOODS

Do not use gasoline in cleaning leather upholstery. Plain water, with a little ammonia will remove the dirt and a brisk rubbing with a clean woolen or flannel cloth will do the rest. For still more careful treatment use a regular dressing.
